THE TRIAL OF JOHN H. SURRATE

The trial of Jno. H. Surrat was resumed in the Criminal Court this morning before Judge Fisher, the room being crowed as usual. The prisoner and jurors were brought in at ten o clock and the Court was opened. After some delay, caused by search for papers-

Mr. Bradley said he would first offer in evidence the time table of the New York Central railroad for April, 1865, showing the trains then left Albany at 7 o'clock a. m., and reached Syracuse at 4.20 p. m., leaving Syracuse at Canadaigua at 4.52. Mr. Pierrepoint said they had agreed that the tables be admitted as the time tables of the road, but they did not agree that the trains arrived and departed at the times named. Mr. Merrick said he would ask the indulgence of the Court to present an authority in regard to reopening the question of admitting the register of the Webster House. He reterred the Court to 12th Heward, U. S. Sapreme Court reports, where a letter of a defendant was admitted. Judge Fisher, after reading the same, said he supposed that letter must have had a postmark on it, or something on the inside, showing conclusively where it came from and by whom it was written. He had always seen letters ruled out unless they bore a post-mark showing that they did come from the place and at the time from which they purported to come. They were admitted on account of the post-mark, because that was evidence made by some one else at the time the letter was mailed. Mr. Bradley said an important witness, Mr.

Bushes, left Mentreal for this city on Tuesday, and it was expected that he would be here this morning, but nothing had been heard from him. Since yesterday they had discovered the whereabouts of a gentleman of respectability and character, who was at the Brainard House, in Elmira, on the 14th and 15th of April, 1865 and there saw the prisoner at the bar. This gentleman and Mr. Bushes were the only witnesses the defense now had to examine, and they would then close their case. The rulings of the Court had excluded the testimony of a large number of witnesses which the de-

Mr. Merrick said the time had now arrived when the original evidence was at an end, the prosecution could now offer nothing except such testimony as rebuted that offered by de fense. He therefore moved the Court to strike from the record all evidence which the prosecution had offered to connect others with the conspiracy but failed to do so. He asked that the evidence in regard to Jacob Thompson: the alleged shooting of Union soldiers; the fight with some gunboat on the Potomac river; and the letter found floating on some river in North Carolina, be stricken from the evidence as the prosecution had failed to connect them with

Mr. Pierrepoint said there were many things offered in evidence which would be connected and make the chain perfect when the evidence was all reviewed. He did not propose to dis-cuss this question now, but would do so at the close of the case. As to the prosecution not having the right to offer new testimony as rebutting, he did not agree with the learned gentleman on the other side. The prosecution did have the right to offer any testimony which they had the right to offer at first. The detense had attempted to prove that Surratt was in Canandaigua, Elmira and Montreal, and the prosecution would show that he was not

Mr. Carrington said the only question before the Court was if certain items of testimony should be stricken from the record. He thought this whole question should be suspended until all the evidence was in. He thought the evidence of the prisoner shooting down Union soldiers was connected with the conspiracy, and it would be shown to the satisfaction of the Cour

Richard Sutton sworn and examined by Mr. Bradley.-Witness had much experience in reading and examining handwriting. Witness was here shown the Toney letter addressed to Atzerodt, and testified he did not think it was in the same hand writing as the letter addressed to Weichman, signed by Surratt. Witness was here shown the telegrams of Booth, and testified he did not think they were in the same handwriting as the Charles Selby letter. Cross-examined by Mr. Pierrepont .- Witness did not think the Charles Selby letter was written in a patural hand; witness did not profess to be an expert; witness had not made it a study to examine handwriting to see if their festimony in. Judge Fisher said, in view of the circumstances, he was inclined to give the defence until to morrow to close. The witnesses had a long distance to come, and time should be given them. He therefore decided that the tesimony for the defence must close to-morrow if it was necessary to sit by candle light. Mr. Merrick asked what was to be done with the motion to strike out certain testimony.

Judge Fisher said the question would remain oren, and in the meantime he would review the testimony, and if not connecting the prisoner it would be ruled out. Mr. Merrick said be thought the question should be disposed of before the final argument of the case, as suggested by the gentleman on the other side. They had made many state. ments about the magical chain, out he could not see it, though he had heard it rattle often. Mr. Pierrepoint.-Oh, it is an ordinary iron Mr. Bradley -Yes, but there are some links to be forged. At 11.40 the court took a recess until to-morrow merning at 10 o'clock.

THE BALTIMORE AND POTOMAC RAILROAD. There has been lately a change made in the route heretofore surveyed for the Baltimore and Potomac Railrord, by which it is claimed a considerable saving in distance and time will be made, although it will increase the cost of the main road through Prince George's, because there will be heavier cutting and grading to do. The new route is more of an air line in is character, and is located in some places 4 miles west of the old route, and the distance by it to Baitimore will be about 36 miles. learn that the new route will be along the banks of Stony Creek-a branch flowing into the Patapsco. running about three miles east of Elkridge Landing, thence down the stream on which Pumphrey's Mill is situated, crossing the Annapolis Railroad, between Sappington's and Phelps' instead of near Millersville, passin, n ar Conway's store, and along Collington Granch to within a mile of that place, thence to the head waters of Beaver Dam Creek, passing down that creek and approaching the city on the east side of the Eastern Branch. It is said that the depot will be established on H street. near Delaware avenue, but this is not certain. It is almost certain, however, that a site for station has been selected between this city and Bladensburg. A few days since a corps of urveyors were engaged in running a line on the east side of the Eastern Branch, and it is said that it is in contemplation, if they can procure a charter, to build the road along Virginia avenue and connect it with the Wash. ngton, Alexandria, and Georgetown railroad. The friends of the work are confident that the road is to be a fixed fact, and are well satisfied that their backers will not let it fail.

town was approved and passed. A resolution relative to laying certain flag footways was concurred in as amended by the Board of Aldermen, and passed. MAD Dog .- Bridge street, near Washington. was the scene of much excitement yesterday afternoon, between 3 and 4 o'clock, by reason of a mad deg running loose, seeking "whom he might devour." A crowd soon got at his heels, and he sought refuge from his pursuers in Mr. Field's oyster saloon, near the corner of Washington street, much to the terror of the ladies of the family, who speedily fled to a back room, leaving the cur "master of the situation." At this juncture officer Volkman arrived, and together with a colored man, entered the room and endeavored to dispatch the infuriated animal, who appeared to be in the worst state of madness, snapping and snarling at his tormentors. Mr. Volkman having no other weapon than his club, failed, of his purpose, the dog escaping into the street, after passing between the legs of a worthy reporter. and attempted to jump through the window of Mr. Frizzell's house, breaking the glass badly. He was then chased back to the house of Mr. Field, where officer Volkman dealt him several "healthy" blows with his club, but not until the dog had bit one of his fingers on his left hand. Mr. Winterhalter then arrived with a gun, and quickly dispatched the cur, and the excitement subsided Acquitted .- Last week Mr. Aloysius Reed. of Montgomery County, Md., was found to have a stolen horse in his possession belonging to Col. Dunlop. He was taken before Justice Buckey and gave security for his appearance yesterday evening. He appeared at the appointed time yesterday and produced evidence that he purchased the horse three years ago, upon which he was dismissed, but as it was proven that the horse was stolen from Col. Dunlop he relinquished his claim thereto, and the horse was turned over to its proper owner. POLICE MATTERS .- Only four arrests were made yesterday, the fines of which amounted in the aggregate to $11.62. A woman named Fannie Wilson imbibed too treely in bad whisky, causing her to be arrested for being drunk and disorderly, for which she was fined $2.50 by the justice. Simon Weston, a boatman, met Mr. Chas. T. Peck, clerk at the collector's office, at a late hour last evening, and asked for work, which was refused him, when he commenced abusing Mr. Peck with improper language, and otherwise acting disorderly. Officer Cunningham arrested him, and took him before Justice Buckey, who fined bim $3.62. Michael Ryan was fined $5.50 for disorderly conduct and vagrancy.

AQUEDUCT STREET .- The Councils of this year do not seem any more disposed to im. prove the main entrance to our city than their predecessors, and many citizens who have the interests and good name of Georgetown at heart seem disposed to make its improvement an issue at the next municipal election. A feeble effort was made to have the matter considered early this session, and a little inquiry was made for plats and papers, which seems to have exhaused the energy of our legislators in that direction. Meanwhile the season for street work is slipping away, and in a month or two it will be too late to attempt to do

ROBBERY .- While Fannie Wilson was under arrest at the station-house yesterday afterncon three or five boys broke into her house into her house in Ciscil ally and carried off some clothing. Officer Boarman arrested a colored boy this morning named Andrew Jackson, only twelve years old, who confessed the deed, and told on several others concerned whom officer Swindles is on the lookeut for. SUSPICION OF LARCENY .- Dennis Maddox was arraigned before Justice Buckey this morning upon suspicion of the larceny of a horse, but there being no evidence against him, he was dismissed.

this morning for being drunk in the street. SHIPMENTS OF COAL .- From Ray's docks to-day, 660 tons, and from the Hampshire and Baltimore Company's docks, 330 tons. THE CANAL.-Business on the canal to-day seemed quite dull. Only nine boats arrived yesterday afternoon and this morning; 2 with coal to the Centeral company, I to the Borden. to the Consolidation, 1-te the Hampshire and Baltimore and one to the American company. Twenty-one boats have departed in the same length of time. THE PORT .- Entered and Cleared-The teamer Express, Nickle master, from and to Baltimore. Departed—the steamer E. C.
